The Client's signature on the power of attorney must be officially certified unless it is signed before the Dealer, the Private Banker or other competent Bank officer. If the Client is a legal entity, any employee of the Client is considered an Authorised Person, unless the Client informs the Bank otherwise.

7. The Client shall conclude the Transactions with the Bank through the Dealer on the basis of the Bank's Proposal made after the Bank obtains all information necessary to present the Bank's Proposal. The Bank shall be entitled to withdraw or amend a Bank's Proposal at any time before the Client gives full and unconditional consent for adoption of the Bank's Proposal and any amendment of the Bank's Proposal shall be deemed the presentation of a new Bank's Proposal from the side of the Bank and the cancellation or rejection of the original Bank's Proposal. If the conditions of the Bank's Proposal are changed during conclusion of a Transaction in response to the updating of relevant Transaction parameters, the Bank shall be bound only by the new, amended Bank's Proposal.

8. Unless the Bank's Proposal states otherwise, the Bank's Proposal shall remain open only for the period of continuous, in particular telephone communication with the Client relating to the conclusion of the Transaction.

9. In concluding the Transaction, the Client shall be required to express full and unconditional consent for the adoption of the Bank's Proposal in a way that admits no doubt, for example by using an expression such as "I'll take it", "I agree", "Agreed", "OK", "Done", "I want it", "Buy", "Sell" etc. If the Client does not comprehensibly and unambiguously express full and unconditional consent for adoption of the Bank's Proposal or the Bank has any doubt regarding the expression of full and unconditional consent for adoption of the Bank's Proposal, in particular during uninterrupted telephone communication with the Client, the Bank shall be entitled to ask the Client to confirm his/her full and unconditional consent for adoption of the Bank's Proposal or his/her rejection of conclusion of the Transaction. The Client's consent for the Bank's Proposal is taken as the submission of an Order relating to a Financial Instrument.

11. The Bank shall, without undue delay and no later than by the end of the Business Day following the conclusion of the Transaction, Offsetting Agreement, or execution of a Client's Order, issue a Confirmation, i.e. a written confirmation or a confirmation made on a durable medium concerning the conclusion of the Transaction, Offsetting Agreement, or the execution of the Client's Order. The purpose of the Confirmation issued by the Bank is only to record and confirm the agreed parameters of the already concluded Transaction, or the Offsetting Agreement, and any failure to issue, delayed issue or failure to sign of the Confirmation shall not affect the validity and the binding nature of the Transaction. The Client is entitled to request an itemised breakdown of commissions and expenses charged.

12. The Client shall be obliged to check the Confirmation on delivery and notify the Bank of any discrepancies and/or errors in the Confirmation without unnecessary delay; in this notification they may also request correction of identified discrepancies and/or errors. The Client shall not be entitled to amend or add to the Confirmation, but in the event of detecting any discrepancies and/or errors the Client is required to expressly object the discrepancies in the content and/or obvious errors in the Confirmation, in a manner referred to in point 3 of this Article III of these Terms and Conditions. Evident errors made in the Confirmation shall not affect the agreed conditions and parameters of a concluded Transaction or the Offsetting Agreement, and the Bank undertakes to issue a new Confirmation in which the evident errors are corrected.

13. The Client shall be obliged to sign the Confirmation and return it to the Bank within

a) three Business Days from delivery of Confirmation, if Transaction does not include a trade with OTC Derivative;

b) two Business Days from conclusion or execution of trade with OTC Derivative provided the Client is a non-financial counterparty which does not fulfil requirements under Art. 10 of EMIR Regulation; or

c) the closing of the Business Day from the day of conclusion or execution of trade with OTC Derivative provided the Client is a financial counterparty or non-financial counterparty which fulfils requirements under Art. 10 of EMIR Regulation.

The Client is entitled to object to content discrepancies and/or obvious errors in the Confirmation even after this period, and if such a request is justified, the Bank is obliged to issue a corrective Confirmation without delay.

14. The Client's duty to deliver a written Confirmation to the Bank as referred to in point 13 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions shall not apply if the Client confirms receipt of the Confirmation via electronic banking services under a separate agreement on the authorisation of Confirmations using ČSOB electronic banking services in accordance with the terms and conditions for the provision of ČSOB electronic banking services published on the Website, provided that this service has been activated for the Client pursuant to an agreement between the Client and the Bank. By entering into the separate agreement on the authorisation of Confirmations using ČSOB electronic banking services, the Client is assumed to agree to the sending of Confirmations by electronic means. The transaction time on a Confirmation may be quoted in Central European Time (CET) or Central European Summer Time (CEST)

15. Individual Transactions concluded under these Terms and Conditions can be cancelled or amended only on the basis of an agreement between the Bank and the Client and where technically possible. This is without prejudice to the right to terminate a Transaction under point 2 of Article VII in these Terms and Conditions.

16. In cases where a Transaction is concluded by a Client – Nonconsumer, the Bank shall be entitled to unilaterally rescind any Transaction if the Transaction was, in the Bank's justified opinion, concluded under "non-market conditions". For the purposes of these Terms and Conditions, non-market conditions shall mean the agreement of a transaction parameter that is highly non-standard, e.g. one that is extremely advantageous or disadvantageous for the Bank or the Client – Nonconsumer compared to the standard conditions existing in the interbank market at the time of conclusion of the Transaction in question. The Transaction that in the Bank's opinion is concluded under non-market conditions shall be rescinded from the moment of notification by telephone or delivery of written notice of termination of the Transaction from the Bank to the Client – Nonconsumer whereas delivery shall be regulated by the applicable provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. If the Bank notifies the Client of rescission of the Transaction by telephone, the Bank shall be obliged to send the Client – Nonconsumer follow-up written notification of the rescission of the Transaction but the non-delivery of such written confirmation shall not affect the rescission of the given Transaction.

17. The Bank and the Client may conclude a written agreement permitting the submission of Client's Orders by other means, e.g. telephone or other media providing clear evidence of the Client's Orders. The use of other forms of Client's Order as irrefutable proof of submission of a Client's Order shall be regulated mutatis mutandis by applicable provisions of these Terms and Conditions.

18. The Client's Order must include the information required by the Bank, in particular:

- a) The full and precise identification of the Client;
- b) Specification of the Account from which the price of the Transaction shall be debited, or to which proceeds from the Transaction shall be credited. If no Account is specified in the Client's Order, the Bank can use any Account, or designate an account to which the Client shall be obliged to pay the price for the Transaction;
- c) The requested specification and parameters of the Transaction;

d) The validity period of the Client's Order. If the Client does not set a validity period for the Client's Order, the Bank shall consider the Client's Order valid for three Business Days from its date of issuing;

e) The date of issuing and the Client's signature, which must be in accordance with the signature specimens held by the Bank.

19. The Client's Order must be delivered by the deadline set by the Bank. The Bank shall not be liable for losses that the Client incurs or may incur in connection with a failure to comply with the requirements relating to the particulars of the Client's Order and the deadline for delivery.

20. A Client's Order can only be cancelled before the validity time of the Order and only if it has not been executed and the Bank is able to cancel it. The Client's Order can be changed only by cancelling the original Client's Order and by submitting a new Client's Order.

21. The Client is entitled to request information on the execution of the Client's Order.

22. If the Client is classified under the Securities Act as a "Non-Professional Client" or "Professional Client", the Bank will execute the Client's Order in accordance with the Bank's Strategy for the execution of orders in force and effect, which the Client can find on the Website in the section <https://www.csob.sk/pravne-informacie#mifid>, with a view to ensuring achievement of the best possible result for the Client. By signing the Framework Agreement, the Client agrees with the execution of the Order outside the trading venue. Unless the Client stipulates otherwise for the given order, the Client's submission of an order also expresses agreement with the non-disclosure of a limit order for shares and ETFs if the Order was not executed immediately.

23. The Special Method of Transaction Conclusion is available solely to a Client who is a private banking Client of the Bank. Communication between the Client and the Private Banker shall be regulated mutatis mutandis by the provisions governing communication between the Bank and the Client, in particular the provisions relating to the use of recorded telephone conversations and the use of a UIC for identification of the Client. For the purposes of points a) to 1.g) of this point 23, the word Client means a Client who is a private banking client of the Bank:

a) If the Client wishes to conclude a Transaction through a Private Banker, he/she must submit at least minimum particulars of the requested Transaction (hereinafter in this point the "Deal Parameters").

b) The Private Banker will communicate the Deal Parameters to the Dealer who will provide indicative conditions under which the Bank would conclude a Transaction with the Client based on the Client's desired Deal Parameters valid at the time of communication between the Private Banker and the Dealer on the Deal Parameters, or the indicative conditions under which it would be able to execute the Client's Order (hereinafter in this point the "Indicative Conditions"). The Private Banker will then communicate the Indicative Conditions to the Client.

c) If the Client unconditionally accepts the offered Indicative Conditions, it shall give the Private Banker a Client's Order to conclude a Transaction, which must include the Deal Parameters and agreement with the Indicative Conditions (the Client's agreement with the Indicative Conditions is adequately expressed by the Client's signature on the Client's Order or consent given by telephone). After receiving a Client's Order to conclude a Transaction, the Private Banker contacts the Dealer and gives them a request to conclude a Transaction as specified in the Client's Order to conclude a Transaction (hereinafter in this point the "Request to conclude a Transaction"). If the Client does not accept the Indicative Conditions or accepts them only conditionally, the Bank shall not be obliged to conclude a Transaction with the Client.

d) If during the period between the offer of the Indicative Conditions and the submission of the Request to conclude a Transaction, the conditions in the interbank market change to the extent that in the Dealer's opinion the Indicative Conditions are no longer up-to-date or correct and the Bank could conclude the Transaction with the Client only under other conditions that would be less favourable for the Client than those in the Indicative Conditions, the Dealer shall be entitled on behalf of the Bank, to reject the Transaction and to propose to the Client new indicative conditions under which the Bank would conclude a Transaction based on the Deal Parameters at the time of submission of the Request to conclude a Transaction (hereinafter in this point the "New Indicative Conditions"). The Private Banker will then inform the Client of the rejection of the Request to conclude a Transaction and present the New Indicative Conditions.

e) If the Client accepts the New Indicative Conditions without reservation, the procedure set out in points c) and d) above shall be followed. If the Client does not accept the New Indicative Conditions or accepts them only conditionally, the Bank shall not be obliged to conclude a Transaction with the Client.

f) If the Dealer accepts a Request to conclude a Transaction, the Bank shall conclude a Transaction with the Client in accordance with the Request to conclude a Transaction. The Private Banker shall then inform the Client of the conclusion of the Transaction.

g) A Client's request to conclude a Transaction is deemed to be submission of an Order relating to Financial Instruments unless the Bank proposes New Indicative Conditions to the Client.

Article IV. Transactions

A) Foreign Exchange Trades

The conditions for the conclusion of Foreign Exchange Trades are provided for below.

1. Foreign Exchange Transactions

1.1. For the purposes of Foreign Exchange Transactions all terms with an initial capital letter (except the titles of headings or points) in points 1.1 to 1.12 of this Article shall have the meaning as stated under this point:

“Base Currency Amount” means the volume of funds expressed in the Base Currency.

“Foreign Exchange Transaction” means a Spot Transaction, Forward Transaction or Foreign Exchange Swap.

“Foreign Exchange Swap” is an agreement between the Bank and the Client on the execution of two consecutive Foreign-Exchange Transactions – a Spot Transaction and a Forward Transaction with different settlement dates, in which the Exchange Rates at which the two Transactions will be executed are set at the same time. The Contracting Parties agree on the purchase or sale of a certain amount of one valid currency for a certain amount of another valid currency and simultaneously agree on the resale or repurchase of the given amount of currency after an agreed period at the Exchange Rate agreed in advance for the first leg of the transaction (the purchase or sale) and the second leg of the transaction (the resale or repurchase).

“Principal Currency” or “Base Currency” means the currency agreed between the Contracting Parties and recorded in the Confirmation as the object of Conversion.

“Combined Order” (or “One-cancels-the-other order” or “O/C/O Order”) – means that the Client specifies Take-Profit and Stop-Loss Exchange Rates for a given Conversion at the same time. If one of these Exchange Rates is struck while the order is in effect, the Bank will execute that part of order and at the same time stop monitoring the other side of the order.

“Termination Date” means the Business Day agreed between the Contracting Parties and recorded in the Confirmation as the last day of the Swap Period.

“Conversion” means a transaction in which a fixed quantity of the Base Currency is bought/sold for an amount of the Quote Currency determined according to the Exchange Rate.

“Buyer of the Base Currency” or “Buyer” means the person determined by agreement of the Contracting Parties to purchase the Base Currency.

“Exchange Rate” or “Spot Exchange Rate” or “Forward Exchange Rate” means the exchange rate expressing the quantity of the Quote Currency that is needed for the purchase of the Base Currency or vice versa and which the Contracting Parties agree on the Trade Date and which is recorded in the Confirmation. The Exchange Rate represents the price of the Transaction in a Foreign Exchange Transaction.

6.3.5. The Client cannot dispose of the Volume of Unallocated Gold during the agreed period of the Reverse Transaction with Unallocated Gold. If for any reason the Unallocated Gold is disposed of before termination of the agreed period, the Client shall not be entitled to the Yield.

6.4.5. The Contracting Parties have agreed that the Commodity Account is not a payment account as the Unallocated Gold is not a valid currency. At the same time, the transfer of the Unallocated Gold from the Commodity Account to any other account maintained by any other entity than the Bank is not possible.

6.4.9. The Contracting Parties have agreed that the amount of the physically bought gold may be lower than the amount of the Unallocated Gold recorded on the Commodity Account mainly due to (i) the difference between the market prices of the physically delivered gold and the Unallocated Gold or (ii) the physical form in which the gold with physical delivery should be delivered (coin, ingot, brick etc.).

6.4.10. The Commodity Account shall cease to exist (i) on the basis of a unilateral act – by written application (termination notice) of the Client delivered to the Bank or by written announcement (termination notice) of the Bank addressed to the Client and that on the last day of the month following after the month when the application or the announcement was delivered to the other Contracting Party, (ii) automatically on the day of termination of the Framework Agreement, unless agreed otherwise.

6.4.11. If on the day of termination of the Commodity Account, Unallocated Gold is recorded on the Commodity Account and the Bank and the Client did not agree otherwise, the Bank shall be entitled to sell the Unallocated Gold for the current XAU exchange rate ascertained by the Bank between the Unallocated Gold and EUR, and transfer to the Account the funds in EUR acquired thereby less any applicable fees and costs related to the sale of the Unallocated Gold.

6.4.12. If there is no Unallocated Gold recorded on the Commodity Account for a period longer than 12 months, the Bank shall be entitled to unilaterally terminate the Commodity Account, whereas it will inform the Client in writing of the same. entitled to the payment of a certain sum, the amount of which will depend on the conditions of the Deposit Transaction agreed by the Bank and the Client when concluding it.

13.3. Conditions for the conclusion of a Deposit Transaction are (i) the Client must have an Account opened in the Bank unless agreed otherwise and (ii) the minimum amount of the Principal shall be EUR 100 000 (in words: one hundred thousand euros) or the equivalent of EUR 100 000 in freely convertible currencies unless Contracting Parties agree otherwise. For the avoidance of doubt, simple Deposit Transactions (i.e. except Structured Deposit Transactions, Structured Transactions with Unallocated Gold and/or High-Yield Deposit Transactions) concluded through Dealer are considered Non-MiFID Transactions and deposits pursuant to the Civil Code at the same time. Client acknowledges that the Account Number to which the Principal of such a simple Deposit Transaction is credited shall be determined for evidence purposes.

13.4. In order to conclude a Deposit Transaction the Bank and the Client must agree on at least the following parameters of the Deposit Transaction:

- the Currency;
- the Principal;
- the Effective Date;
- the Maturity Date;

13.5. In addition to the minimum parameters above, the Contracting Parties may also agree on other conditions of the Deposit Transaction relating in particular to the type of Interest Rate (fixed, floating or zero), the maturity of the deposit, the maturity of interest, the reinvestment of interest, the gradual reduction of the principal of the deposit and so on.

On receiving the new Interest Rate, the Client must clearly express consent for the Interest Rate by the means laid down in point 10 of Article III Communication with the Bank and the method for concluding Transactions in these Terms and Conditions.

13.7. The Contracting Parties shall deem the acceptance of the Interest Rate by the Client during the telephone conversation to be the decisive factor for the conclusion of the Deposit Transaction and the creation of the Client's obligation to deposit or transfer the agreed amount for deposit and the Bank's obligation to accept the deposited amount. From the conclusion of the Deposit Transaction to the agreed date for the establishment of the deposit, the Bank shall be entitled to block funds on the Client's Accounts to the value of the agreed Deposit.

13.8. The Client shall not be entitled to make use of the funds constituting the Deposit during their agreed period of deposit. If the Bank is obliged to prematurely terminate the Deposit before the agreed period for which funds have been deposited (e.g. by reason of execution or distraintment), the Client shall not be entitled to any interest for the agreed interest period in which the Deposit was prematurely terminated.

13.9. If the Client wishes to conclude a Deposit Transaction with a Value Date as of the date of the agreement on the Deposit Transaction with the Bank, the Client agrees that the Bank shall set the Interest Rate based on the current situation in the interbank market.

13.10. Provided the Client does not have an Account open with the Bank from which he/she provides a Principal for a Deposit Transaction, at least 2 Business days before the maturity of such Deposit the Client is obliged to submit an order in relation to the Deposit at maturity, i.e. account number, to which the Principal and Interest Amount shall be paid, or only Interest Amount provided the Bank and the Client have agreed on a conclusion of a new Deposit Transaction in relation to the Principal.

- b) In High-Yield Deposit Transactions the Contracting Parties must agree, in addition to the parameters of the Deposit Transaction laid down in point 13.4 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions, (i) the alternative currency in which the high-yield deposit can be paid out at maturity (resulting in the definition of a Currency Pair) and (ii) the value of the Exchange Rate for the currency pair which will be used when paying out the high-yield deposit in the alternative currency.

- c) In Structured Transactions with Unallocated Gold the Contracting Parties must agree, in addition to the parameters of the Deposit Transaction laid down in point 13.4 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions, the value of the XAU Exchange Rate.

13.12. The Bank advises the Client of the fact that a Structured Deposit Transaction, a High-Yield Deposit Transaction and/or a Structured Transaction with Unallocated Gold may represent for him/her a transaction INVOLVING A RISK OF LOSS OF A PART OF THE PRINCIPAL, especially in the event of unfavourable changes in the inter-bank market.

13.13. The Bank shall exercise its right in Structured Transactions with Unallocated Gold automatically at the latest on the maturity date of the Structured Transactions with Unallocated Gold and that in a way that it will credit the Commodity Account of the Client with the respective amount of the Unallocated Gold within the period of time agreed on when concluding the Structured Transactions with Unallocated Gold, whereas the Interest Amount shall be paid in agreed currency to the Account. 13.15. The terms and conditions for maintenance of the Commodity Account are stated in point 6.4 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions. The Bank shall open only one Commodity Account to manage all the Client's Transactions with Unallocated Gold unless the Contracting Parties agree otherwise.

If the applicable conditions laid down in the Act on Securities are met, the statement on suitability is provided to the Client immediately after the execution of the Order or the conclusion of the Transaction.

23.5. A Client is entitled to submit a purchase or sale Order for Financial Instruments that the Bank has assessed to be unsuitable for the Client, in which case the Bank accepts and transmits or executes the Order within the accepting, transmitting or executing an Order.

23.6. The Client must provide current information, particularly when completing the investment questionnaire or updating it when its validity expires. The validity period of an investment questionnaire is specified in the published document Provision of Investment Advice.

23.7. The Bank provides Investment Advice to Clients on a non-independent basis based on a commercial decision. The main subject-matter of suitability assessment comprises Financial Instruments issued by entities in the financial group of which the Bank is a member.

23.8. If an investment service is provided at the Client's initiative, the Bank reserves the right not to provide Investment Advice on certain Financial Instruments even though the Client has completed the investment questionnaire i.e. to assess only the appropriateness of the given transaction and the Financial Instrument, or to proceed without the assessment of either the suitability or appropriateness of the given transaction and Financial Instrument. The Bank hereby informs the Client that without fulfilment of the investment questionnaire by the Authorised Person in relation to the knowledge and experience, the Bank shall not be able to assess appropriateness of the Financial Instrument, thus not be able to determine whether the relevant investment service or Financial Instrument are appropriate for the Client.

23.9. The Bank does not provide Investment Advice in the following cases:

- a) The Client is categorized as eligible counterparty,
- b) The Client who is categorized as a professional client, concludes a Transaction with the Bank through Bloomberg (chat) platform,
- c) The Client buys securities to which he is an issuer, for the purpose of their amortization (i.e. not for the purpose of investment),
- d) In line with point 23.2. above, the Client fills the investment questionnaire only in the part of knowledge and experience with Financial Instruments (investment products) and investment services.

23.10. The Bank's Investment Advice on Financial Instruments under the Framework Agreement is the Investment Advice provided via product approach and as one-off method. To exclude doubt, the Framework Agreement does not establish an ongoing relationship between the Bank and the Client as defined in applicable legislation, nor does it oblige the Bank to provide periodic assessment of the suitability of Financial Instruments.

23.11. If the Client has signed a separate framework investment agreement with the Bank, which includes provisions on trading in Securities and the provision of Investment Advice in relation to Securities and investment products, the Investment Advice under this Framework Agreement is provided only in relation to hedging products specified mainly in Annex 2 of these Terms and Conditions. If a Client is a legal entity and not a Private Banking Client, the Bank will provide Investment Advice in accordance with point 23.9 above unless the Client and the Bank agree otherwise in a separate framework investment agreement.

23.12. Further information on the provision of Investment Advice can be found in the document Provision of Investment Advice.

23.13. If the Client has concluded a Framework Agreement part of which was Art. II (Representations of Client) with the following representation: "With respect to a level of his professional knowledge and experience he can understand and understands essentials of trading the Transactions and is aware of any risks related to trading the Transactions," it is presumed that such representation of the Client implies only on cases when at entering into a Transaction no Investment Advisory is provided.

24. LEI

24.1. Applicable legislation requires that some Clients must have an LEI Code to execute transactions on financial market, and such Clients must notify the Bank of the LEI code when concluding Transactions with the Bank. A Client has fulfilled this obligation if they have notified the Bank of their LEI code for previous Transactions. The Client is responsible for ensuring that their LEI code information is correct and up to date.

24.2. If a Client is obliged to have an LEI Code, they must be aware that some information on the Client that is not personal data, e.g. the LEI code, may be processed in information systems belonging to the Bank or other entities in the group of which the Bank is a member for the purpose of complying with legislative duties.

Article VI. Transaction Limits and their use

1. The Bank may set internal financial limits for Transactions entered into with the Client under the Framework Agreement (hereinafter only “Limits”).

2. The Limits can be changed by decision of the Bank while the Framework Agreement is in force. The new Limit set by the Bank shall come into effect when the Bank decides on the change of the Limit. The Client has the right to ask the Bank for information on the current level of the Limit at any time. The Bank shall be entitled to refuse to conclude a Transaction if any of the Limits would be exceeded as a result. At the Client’s request, the Bank will inform the Client whether the Limits allow the Client to conclude a proposed Transaction.

3. If the total Mark-to-market Loss for a Transaction is equal to or greater than 80% of the current set Limit, the Bank shall be entitled (but in no case obliged) to attempt to execute a stop-loss measure closing one Transaction or more Transactions of the Client at the conditions in effect in the respective financial market at the given time so that the overall Mark-to-Market Loss on the Transaction is at most 80% of the Limit. If the Bank closes one or more Transactions, the Transactions will be closed according to their Mark-to-Market Loss, i.e. the first to be closed will be the Transaction with the highest absolute Mark-to-Market Loss, then the Transaction with the second highest absolute Mark-to-Market Loss and so on until the Client’s overall Mark-to-Market Loss is no more than 80 % of the current set Limit. If two or more Transactions have the same loss and also in cases where the conditions on the financial markets change so quickly that the order of the degree of loss on the Transactions cannot be reliably determined, the Bank has the right to choose which Transaction it will close. The Contracting Parties hereby expressly exclude the possibility to close only a part of a Transaction. The Client shall be liable in full for any loss from a Transaction or multiple Transactions caused by their closure, regardless of when closure of the Transaction(s) takes place.

4. The Client accepts that the Bank is not obliged to execute a stop-loss measure and that in executing a stop-loss measure, the Bank is limited by current conditions on the given financial market at the time in question and therefore may not be able to execute a stop-loss measure sufficiently quickly or under conditions most advantageous for the Client, or may not be able to execute a stop-loss measure at all.

5. The Contracting Parties have agreed that the Client’s overall Mark-to-Market Loss shall be calculated as the sum of all the Client’s open positions from Transactions that are in a Mark-to-Market Loss at the time of calculation, and the Client’s open positions from Transactions that show a Mark-to-Market Profit at the time of calculation of the overall Mark-to-Market Loss shall not be taken into account.

Article VII. Fulfilment and security of obligations under Transactions

1. Fulfilment of obligations

1.1. In order to ensure fulfilment of the Client’s obligations under concluded Transactions, the Client hereby gives the Bank an order to transfer funds from the Account to settle the Client’s obligations under the concluded Transaction.

The Client expressly authorises the Bank to use any credit balance in the Client’s favour on any of the Accounts in the Bank to settle a Transaction using the Account–Account method.

1.3. If the Client has more than one Account opened in the Bank, the Bank will implement the Client’s payment order under point 1.1 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions from an Account in the same currency as the currency of the concluded Transaction. If there are more such Accounts, the Bank may execute the transfer order from any Account. If there is no such Account in the required currency, and if the Bank and the Client do not expressly agree otherwise, the Bank shall realize the payment order from any Account in another currency and for the purpose of the currency conversion, the Bank shall be entitled to determine the exchange rate based on the official exchange rate list issued by the Bank for foreign exchange operations in force on the Settlement Date of the Transaction (for purpose of this Article VII of the Terms and Conditions, hereinafter only the “Exchange Rate”). If the Bank’s exchange rate list does not include the Exchange Rate for the currency in question, the Bank shall set the Exchange Rate based on market conditions in effect on the Settlement Date for the Transaction.

1.4. The Bank will fulfil its obligations resulting from the concluded Transaction by one of the following methods or any combination thereof:

- a) By credit transfer to an Account maintained by the Bank in the same currency as the currency of the concluded Transaction. If the Client does not have an Account opened in the Bank in the currency of the concluded Transaction, the Bank will credit funds to any Account maintained by the Bank;
- b) by offsetting. The Bank shall be entitled to unilaterally offset any of its receivables against a Client – Nonconsumer from any receivables of the Client – Nonconsumer against the Bank regardless of whether they are due or not due for payment, current or future, lapsed or not lapsed. The Bank is entitled to unilaterally offset any of its payable non-lapsed receivables against the Client – Consumer from any non-lapsed receivables of the Client – Consumer against the Bank, irrespective of whether this concerns existing or future receivables of the Client – Consumer against the Bank.

1.5. The Bank is not be obliged to fulfil obligations under a Transaction concluded with a Client – Nonconsumer if the Client – Nonconsumer is in default with the fulfilment of any of its obligations or duties arising from the Framework Agreement and/or a Transaction and/or these Terms and Conditions and/or other contractual relationship concluded with the Bank. The Bank is not obliged to fulfil its obligations arising from Transactions concluded with a Client – Consumer if the Client – Consumer is in default in fulfilling any obligation or duty under a Framework Agreement and/or Transaction and/or these Terms and Conditions.

1.6. If a Client – Nonconsumer fails to pay any payable amount, it shall be required immediately at the Bank’s request and in no case more than three Business Days thereafter to make due acknowledgement of his/her obligation or debt in the form of a notarial deed serving as warrant for execution in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Act No. 323/1992 Coll. on notaries and notarial activities (the Code of Notary Procedure), as amended. The notarial deed shall include specification of the debt as the amount of the Client’s obligation as at the date of the making of the notarial deed, a description of how the obligation arose and how it will be repaid, and the Client’s consent as the obliged person for enforceability of the notarial deed. The Client shall deliver 1 (one) copy of the notarial deed to the Bank without delay.

1.7. If the Client has knowledge of the existence mutual payable receivables between the Client and Bank that the Bank has not yet unilaterally offset, the Client must ask the Bank to offset them. To eliminate doubt in relation to point 1.4 (b) of this Article of the Terms and Conditions, unless the Bank and a Client – Nonconsumer agree otherwise, the Client – Nonconsumer shall not be entitled to offset unilaterally any receivables against the Bank from the Bank’s receivables against the Client without the Bank’s consent. The provisions of point 2 of this Article shall not be affected hereby, nor the right of the Client – Consumer, under the respective provisions of the Civil Code, to enforce their right to offset a payable receivable of the Client – Consumer toward the Bank in the case of partial or complete failure to fulfil an obligation from the side of the Bank.

2. Rights of the Bank

2.1. The occurrence of any of the following cases or circumstances in relation to the Client shall be deemed an “Event of Default”:

2.4. When exercising its rights under the preceding point 2.3 in relation to a Client Consumer, the Bank shall consider the severity of the Event of Default and the severity of the change of circumstances that occurred and the changes of conditions under which the Framework Agreement and/or Transaction was concluded. In the case of termination of Transactions in relation to a Client – Consumer, it shall also apply that an Event of Default or Event of Early Termination shall be construed to have occurred based on serious objective reasons that were not caused by the Bank, that could not have been foreseen or averted by the Bank and which prevent the Bank in fulfilling its obligations pursuant to the Framework Agreement and/or respective Transaction and/or these Terms and Conditions; the Bank in such case is obliged to inform the Client – Consumer in writing of the early termination of the respective Transaction as well as of the reasons for its early termination, and this in accordance with point 2.7 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions.

2.5. If an event or circumstance would otherwise represent or cause an Event of Default and it is also an Event of Early Termination, it shall be deemed an Event of Early Termination and shall not be considered an Event of Default under these Terms and Conditions.

2.6. The Client shall be obliged to notify the Bank and provide information in the event of the occurrence or risk of the occurrence of any Event of Default or Event of Early Termination without unnecessary delay on becoming aware of the situation or information, or when the Client should be so aware.

2.7. The Bank shall notify the Client in writing of the termination of Transactions (hereinafter the “Notice of Termination of Transactions”). The Notice of Termination of Transactions becomes effective on the date of its delivery, or expiry of the deadline for its collection, or refusal of the Notice of Termination of Transactions, or on another later date following at most 20 days after the date of the Notice of Termination of Transactions, which is stated in the Notice of Termination of Transactions (hereinafter as the “Termination Date” or the “Date of Early Termination”). The setting of the Date of Early Termination is irreversible, irrespective of whether the Event of Default or Event of Early Termination ceases after it is setting. Upon the setting of the Date of Early Termination, all Transactions stipulated in the Notice of Termination of Transactions shall be terminated (hereinafter as the “Transactions being Terminated”), whereas all payable and non-payable, existing and future receivables and obligations of the Bank and the Client resulting from the Transactions being Terminated shall be replaced by a single net obligation of the respective Contracting Party to pay the early termination amount calculated by the Bank (hereinafter as the “Early Termination Amount”). The Bank shall calculate the Early Termination Amount within a reasonable period following the Date of Early Termination and notify the Client of it in writing. The Contracting Parties have agreed that the Early Termination Amount shall be equal to the value of the Settlement Amount increased by the Amount of the Client’s Unpaid Obligations and decreased by the Amount of the Bank’s Unpaid Obligations, in each case expressed in the currency euro, and the Bank shall perform any necessary conversion in accordance with its ordinary practice. If the Early Termination Amount is positive, the Client shall be obliged to pay the Bank the Early Termination Amount within 2 days of its notification, to the Bank’s account specified by the Bank. If the Early Termination Amount is negative, then the Bank shall pay the Client the absolute value of the Early Termination amount within 2 days from its notification to the Client’s account held in the currency of the termination and specified by the Client.

2.8. The Bank is obliged to state in the notice of the Early Termination Amount:

- a) the amount of the Bank’s unpaid obligations to the Client from completed Transactions that are due for payment (hereinafter only the “Amount of the Bank’s Unpaid Obligations”);
- b) the amount of the unpaid obligations of the Client to the Bank from completed Transactions that are due for payment (hereinafter only the “Amount of the Client’s Unpaid Obligations”);
- c) the Settlement Amount and
- d) the resultant Early Termination Amount.

2.9. Since the Client is a person with which the Bank, pursuant to specific regulations, is entitled to conclude a contract on the final settlement of profits and losses, the provisions of points 2.1 to 2.8 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions shall constitute a contract on the final settlement of profits and losses under Art. 180 of Act No. 7/2005 Coll. on bankruptcy and restructuring and on the amendment of certain acts, as amended.

2.10. The defaulting party, if not a Client – Consumer, shall on request indemnify and hold harmless the other Contracting Party for all proven cash payments including fees and costs for legal representation that the other Contracting Party incurs in the enforcement and protection of its rights under the Framework Agreement and/or the Transaction or as a result of the early termination of any Transaction, in particular costs for recovering debts or obligations.

2.11. The Client may terminate all Transactions through the delivery of a written notification to the Bank solely if (i) the Bank fails, without entitlement, to fulfil its obligation to make payment or delivery, that the Bank is obliged to make under a concluded Transaction, and the Bank fails to fulfil this obligation also within an additional term of 10 days from the delivery of a written notification from the Client, (ii) the Bank's banking licence lapses or is revoked, or (iii) bankruptcy is declared on the Bank's assets. In the case of termination of Transactions from the side of the Client this point 2 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions shall apply similarly, wherein in such case the calculation of the Early Termination Amount shall be performed by the Bank.

2.12. Neither Contracting Party may unilaterally terminate or cancel (by notice of termination, withdrawal or in any other way) any Transaction whatsoever otherwise than provided for by the provisions of point 2 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions, and these provisions shall always apply to the settlement of terminated or cancelled Transactions whatever the reason for termination or cancellation (including cases of termination from the side of the Client or under a relevant legislative provision whose use cannot be excluded).

3. Collateral

3.1. The purpose of this Article is to establish rules for collateral instruments securing the fulfilment of the Client's obligations resulting from Transactions concluded under the Framework Agreement and these Terms and Conditions up to the time of complete settlement of the Transaction if the Bank requires any of the following forms of collateral, or a combination thereof, to conclude a Transaction:

- a) Cash Collateral;
- b) Pledge over the Client's receivables against the Bank with real blocking or without real blocking;
- c) Overdraft loan;
- d) Another form of security permitted by law and as specified by the Bank and/or the Terms and Conditions (e.g. a blank promissory note completed according to an agreement on the right to complete the promissory note, the Blocking agreement for NDF Transactions, etc.).

3.2. Cash Collateral represents a real blocking (binding) of funds on one or more of the Accounts and/or on a Blocking Account, as a rule in the currency of the Transaction in accordance with and subject to the conditions laid down herein (hereinafter as the "Cash Collateral"). If the Bank does not maintain an Account for the Client in the currency of the Transaction, the Bank shall be entitled to carry out the necessary conversion of Cash Collateral using the Exchange Rate. If the Bank's exchange rate list does not include an Exchange Rate for the currency in question, the Bank shall set the Exchange Rate based on market conditions in effect on the date of establishment of the Cash Collateral.

3.3. The Cash Collateral represents a guarantee pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Civil Code provided for the benefit of the Bank to secure the Bank's existing or potential future receivables connected with Transactions concluded pursuant to and in accordance with the Framework Agreement and/or these Terms and Conditions. The Client gives express and unconditional consent for the Bank to collect funds equal to the Cash Collateral from the Account in the amount required by the Bank to secure the obligations resulting from the Transaction, and to transfer them the Blocking Account(s) if it does not establish the Cash Collateral directly on the Account, which is fully in the Bank's competence.

3.4. The Client shall not be entitled to dispose of funds constituting the Cash Collateral, nor to pledge them to secure the receivables of third parties against the Client, nor to transfer the right to payment of funds constituting the Cash Collateral to a third party, and shall be obliged to prevent the creation of any third party rights over funds constituting the Cash Collateral. The preceding sentence applies to the Blocking Account mutatis mutandis.

3.5. The establishment of a Cash Collateral shall not require a separate act of the Client and the Bank will block funds constituting the Cash Collateral:

- a) at the moment of the Bank's requirement and in accordance with it, whereas the Bank shall be entitled to block funds on any of the Accounts in the Bank for a Client – Nonconsumer or on a Blocking Account and/or
- b) as at the moment of conclusion of the Transaction pursuant to the Framework Agreement and/or these Terms and Conditions in relation to which the Client establishes Cash Collateral in favour of the Bank.

The Bank shall be entitled to enter the established Cash Collateral into its records.

3.6. During the existence of the Cash Collateral the Client shall not be entitled to cancel the Cash Collateral or the Account(s) including the Blocking Account on which the funds constituting the Cash Collateral are blocked, or to rescind or by any other legal act terminate the contracts providing for the existence of the Cash Collateral. If the Client carries out any legal act resulting in the termination of the contracts providing for the existence of the Cash Collateral, the Bank shall consider this action of the Client to be an Event of Default.

3.7. The Bank and the Client have agreed that if establishment of Cash Collateral is required and there are insufficient funds on the Accounts including Blocking Account, the Client shall be obliged to procure sufficient funds on the Account, or Blocking Account, at least in an amount corresponding to the Client's obligations under the concluded Transaction (i.e. anticipated Mark-to-Market Loss). If, during the process of concluding the Transaction, the Bank decides on reasonable grounds that the current Cash Collateral is insufficient, the Bank shall be entitled (though not obliged) to instruct the Client to provide additional Cash Collateral up to the amount required by the Bank within a reasonable period.

3.8. Where Transactions are concluded that are or should be settled on the date of their conclusion, the Bank is not obliged to require the establishment of Cash Collateral by the Client but the Client is obliged to ensure that there are sufficient funds on an Account to settle the concluded Transaction. If the Client does not provide sufficient funds on Accounts to settle the concluded Transaction, the Bank shall not settle the concluded Transaction and the concluded Transaction shall be automatically rescinded.

3.9. The Bank shall be entitled to use the Cash Collateral for the purposes of settling the Client's obligations from concluded Transactions and/or claims for compensation of damages, costs, losses and lost profit in the event of failure to pay any of the Client's obligations or duties under the Framework Agreement, the Transaction and/or these Terms and Conditions by the following methods and any combination thereof:

- a) by debiting the funds constituting the Cash Collateral from the Account(s), including the Blocking Account, where the Cash Collateral is blocked for its benefit or the benefit of any third party;
- b) by unilaterally offsetting its receivables against the Client – Nonconsumer from the Client – Nonconsumer's receivables against the Bank regardless of whether the receivable is due for payment or not, lapsed or not lapsed, existing or future;
- c) through the unilateral offsetting of its payable non-lapsed receivable against a Client – Consumer with non-lapsed receivables of the Client – Consumer against the Bank, regardless of whether the Client – Consumer's receivables toward the Bank are existing or future.

3.10. The Bank's obligations to the Client for the security shall be reduced by the amount of the Cash

Collateral that the Bank uses in accordance with point 3.9 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions.

3.11. The Contracting Parties have agreed that the Bank shall be entitled to unilaterally offset any of its receivables against the Client – Nonconsumer from the Client – Nonconsumer's receivables against the Bank regardless of whether the receivables are due for payment or not, lapsed or not lapsed, existing or future. The Contracting Parties have agreed that the Bank is entitled to unilaterally offset any of its existing, payable and non-lapsed receivables against the Client – Consumer from any non-lapsed receivables of the Client – Consumer against the Bank, regardless of whether the Client – Consumer's receivables are future or existing. The Bank is also entitled to unilaterally offset receivables in any currency using the Exchange Rate. Unless the Bank and the Client agree otherwise, the Client shall not be entitled to offset any receivable against the Bank from the Bank's receivables against the Client unilaterally without the Bank's consent. This is without prejudice to the Client – Consumer's right to offset its existing, payable and non-lapsed receivable against the Bank from an existing, payable and non-lapsed receivable of the Bank toward the Client – Consumer, if these mutual receivables are related to one Transaction and where the Bank has partially or completely failed to fulfil its obligations toward the Client – Consumer.

3.12. A pledge over the Client's receivables against the Bank with real blocking or without real blocking shall be established by means of a separate agreement on the establishment of a pledge over the Client's receivables against the Bank, which will be concluded between the Client as the pledgor and the Bank as the secured creditor and shall come into effect at the day of the registration of the pledge's registration in the Notarial Central Register of Pledges.

3.13. The Client undertakes to submit an application for registration of the pledge without unnecessary delay, no later than three Business Days after the establishment of the pledge. The Client shall also be obliged to bear any costs connected with the registration of establishment of the pledge under point 3.12 of this Article of the Terms and Conditions.

3.14. If the Client does not ensure registration of the establishment of the pledge in accordance with the concluded security agreement by the agreed deadline, the Bank shall be entitled to provide for the registration of the pledge at the Client's expense.

3.15. The Bank may open an overdraft account to secure the Client's obligations under a separately concluded written agreement. An overdraft account represents a credit limit that the Bank provides to the Client under a written agreement and which is connected to the Client's Account; use of the credit limit and its repayment shall be carried out automatically according to the conditions laid down in the agreement and the rules governing the Client's use of the Account linked to the overdraft.

3.16. If the value of collateral falls or it loses its value during the term of the contractual relationship, the Client undertakes to provide additional security within a period determined by the Bank and in the manner required by the Bank in accordance with these Terms and Conditions or other agreements concluded with the Bank. For the purposes of the Terms and Conditions, the reduction or loss of value of collateral shall mean in particular the following:

- a) collateral provided by the Client or a third party is or becomes invalid, ineffective, unenforceable, inexecutable or unrecoverable, or
- b) the collateral was provided on the basis of inaccurate, incomplete or mistaken information, or
- c) security, material or other rights are established over pledged assets for the benefit of third parties, or
- d) other factors that the Bank has reasonable grounds to believe could cause a reduction in the value of collateral provided by the Client.

3.17. Under generally binding legal regulations, the Bank shall not conclude title transfer financial collateral arrangements with a non-professional client for the purpose of securing or covering present or future, actual or contingent or prospective obligations of clients. The Bank shall not conclude securities financing transactions with non-professional clients.

Annex 1 – basic information on financial instruments

I. Basic option types

The following basic option types apply for all options regardless of the underlying asset, i.e. interest rate options, commodity options, foreign exchange options and the like.

European – an Option that the holder can exercise at a single pre-defined point in time (the Exercise Date)

American – an Option that the holder can exercise it at any time during the term of the contract.

Knock-in – an Option that becomes valid at the moment when a barrier event occurs (suspensive condition).

Knock-out – an Option that is valid until a barrier event occurs; after this occurrence, it becomes invalid (dissolving condition).

One touch – an Option that pays out a predefined amount if the price of the underlying asset reaches or surpasses a predetermined level.

No touch – an Option that pays out a predefined amount if the price of the underlying asset does not reach or exceed a predetermined level.

Range – Characteristic of an Option, in case of which pay-out depends on the movement of the price of an underlying asset within or outside a predefined range.

II. Basic information on Foreign Exchange Options and an overview of their basic types

Foreign exchange option (plain vanilla) – gives the buyer the right, but not the obligation to buy (call) or sell (put) an agreed amount of a specified currency at a predefined exchange rate on a set date (European type of option) or before a set date (American type of option).

The Seller (or option writer) of the foreign exchange option is obliged, if the purchaser of the foreign exchange option exercises it, to supply or purchase the given volume for the agreed amount at the predefined exchange rate.

For the purchaser of the foreign exchange option to acquire this right, the option premium must be paid to the seller. Main variants:

- (i) European / American option;
- (ii) Exchange – a standard foreign exchange option on the foreign exchange market;
- (iii) Deliverable;
- (iv) Non-deliverable – A foreign exchange option where one of the currencies is a non-convertible currency. The profit or loss at the settlement date is calculated according to the difference between the agreed exchange rate and the spot exchange rate in effect at the time of settlement or liquidation (usually fixed).

(Average Rate Option - ARO) – an option in which the pay-out (yield) is set according to the average of the spot exchange rate during the term of the option and the strike price.

Barrier option – an option where the exercise of the right depends on whether the basic foreign exchange rate has reached or not reached or exceeded or not exceeded a predefined trigger price, either during the term of the contract or at the maturity date. Main variants:

- (i) European / American option
- (ii) Knock-in/Knock-out barrier options – more speculative options than standard barrier options.
- (iii) Double knock-in/double knock-out options
- (iv) Window (partial)

Digital (binary) option – an option that has a predefined pay-out if the base exchange rate reaches (or does not reach) a predefined strike price. Main variants:

- (i) European / American option
- (ii) Knock-in/Knock-out option
- (iii) One-touch/Double One-touch option
- (iv) No-touch/Double No-touch option

III. Basic information on FRA Transactions

Forward Rate Agreement (FRA) – an agreement between two parties on an interest rate for a set period in the future. It is similar to a forward contract (i.e. on a forward time deposit/loan) but in this case no real deposit or loan is made on the first maturity date of the contract. Instead the two parties settle a hypothetical loan or deposit at the first maturity date. The cash profit or loss is the discounted value of the difference between the contractual forward interest rate and the reference rate calculated from the notional value of the FRA. The contract defines the rates to be used together with the termination date and the notional value.

IV. Basic information on interest rate options and an overview of their basic types

Interest rate option cap – upper limit of interest rate (cap) is an interest rate option where – if the market reference rate (e.g. EURIBOR, LIBOR) is greater than the upper limit for the interest rate – the holder receives the difference between them at the settlement date. If the market rate is lower than the upper limit (cap), the seller shall make no payment.

Interest rate option floor – lower limit of interest rate (floor) is an interest rate option where – if the market reference rate (e.g. EURIBOR, LIBOR) is lower than the upper limit for the interest rate – the holder receives the difference between them at the settlement date. If the market rate is higher than the lower limit (floor), the seller shall make no payment.

Interest rate option – Swaption is an option that gives the buyer the right but not the obligation to conclude an interest rate swap agreement. The buyer and the seller agree on a strike rate, the duration of the option, the duration of the swap, the notional amount, amortisation and frequency of settlement. Main variants:

- (i) Cash settlement / deliverable
- (ii) European / American option
- (iii) Knock-in/Knock-out
- (iv) Double knock-in/Double knock-out

Barrier interest rate option is an option where exercise of the option depends on whether the underlying interest rate reaches / does not reach or exceeds or does not exceed a predefined level (the barrier) either during the term of the contract or on the maturity date. It can take a Knock-in or Knock-out form.

An index-linked option is an option that consists of two cash flows. The first part represents the return derived from the performance of the index, the second part represents the price of the first part of the cash flow, i.e. it consists of a premium payment either upfront or periodically.

V. Basic information on interest rate swaps and an overview of their basic types

A) Interest Rate Swap (IRS) – a financial contract between two parties who wish to exchange two interest rate payments. The usual procedure is to swap interest rate payments with a fixed interest rate for interest rate payments with a floating interest rate (“fixed-for-floating”) though it is possible to have two floating interest rates (“floating-for-floating”). The interest rate payments are made in the same currency. In this case the principal is not exchanged and both contracting parties contract to pay each other or swap interest payments. Main variants:

- (i) Forward-start interest rate swap – a swap transaction that is agreed today but commences at a certain date in the future, e.g. a three year interest rate swap commencing in two years commences two years from today and ends five years from today.

- (ii) Zero coupon swap – an interest rate swap in which the fixed rate payments are not made in regular instalments during the swap. Instead, the fixed rate amount is paid as a lump sum on the expiry date of the swap while the floating rate payments are paid periodically. Zero coupon swaps represent a high credit risk for the party that receives the fixed rate payment.
 - (iii) Annual fixed rate payments – a variation on a standard interest rate swap in which fixed-rate interest payments are paid annually.
 - (iv) Compounding swap – an interest rate swap in which the fixed rate amounts are not paid out at the fixing date but are instead capitalised. Payments are made through the term of the contract at predefined intervals.
 - (v) Fixing up front – the floating interest rate is fixed at the start of the interest period.
 - (vi) Fixing in arrears – The floating interest rate is not fixed at the start but at the end of the interest period.
 - (vii) Amortising interest rate swap – an interest rate swap in which the principle or the notional amount (and interest payments) are gradually reduced during the term of the swap.
 - (viii) Constant Maturity Swap (CMS) – a variation on a regular interest rate swap in which the floating interest rate is periodically reset according to a fixed maturity market rate for a product with a duration extending beyond that of the swap’s reset period.
 - (ix) Step in Step out IRS – A product that secures a Client against unfavourable movements in interest rates up to a barrier level (KO) while at the same time limiting the possibility to profit from favourable movements in exchange rates beyond a second barrier (KI). The Client is better protected against unfavourable movements in interest rates to the KO barrier than in the case of a traditional CAP or IRS.
- B) Cross-Currency Interest Rate Swap (CCIRS) – an interest rate swap in which the cash flows are in different currencies. At the start of the cross currency interest rate swap the two parties may carry out an initial exchange of the notional values in the two currencies. During the term of the swap, the parties shall pay interest in the currency in which they received the notional amount. When the swap matures, the parties shall carry out a final settlement of the original principal amounts using the same spot FX rate as at commencement. Main variants of a Currency swap:
- (i) With initial and final exchange – this variant involves a low level of currency risk.

- (ii) Without initial exchange – This variant represents a high level of currency risk (because it is a long-term forward contract).
- (iii) Forward-start CCIRS – a swap transaction that is agreed today but commences at a certain date in the future, e.g. a three year interest rate swap commencing in two years commences two years from today and ends five years from today.
- (iv) Fixing up front – the floating interest rate is fixed at the start of the interest period.
- (v) Fixing in arrears – the floating interest rate is not fixed at the start but at the end of the interest period.
- (vi) Amortising CCIRS – a cross-currency interest rate swap in which the principal or notional amount (and interest payments) are gradually reduced over the duration of the swap.
- (vii) FX reset – a CCIRS in which the floating leg amount is reset to the current exchange rate in each reset period. The credit risk is therefore lower than in a plain CCIRS.

The following variants are available for interest rate swaps and foreign exchange swaps:

FX-linked swap – a type of structured product that allows the Client to lower the effective interest rate of a loan by offsetting the premium from sale of an FX option against the instalments of the loan.

Commodity-linked swap – the same as the above except that the underlying asset is a commodity such as oil or gold.

Index - linked swap - similar to the previous product, where the index as an underlying asset affects the interest rate.

VI. Basic information on Structured Deposit Transactions and an overview of their types

Structured deposit (Structured Deposit Transaction)

A structured deposit is an alternative to a time deposit where the yield is produced from the combination of a Deposit and the price and change in value of another underlying asset (an exchange rate, index, commodity etc.). In this investment the principal is guaranteed and there is standardly also a minimum yield. Main variants:

- (i) Yield enhancement deposit – a Deposit offering a higher interest rate than a time deposit with acceptance of the risk that the yield and principal will be paid in another currency at the pre-agreed (strike) exchange rate from the sold option. The premium from the sold option is calculated as an interest bonus in the currency in which the deposit is made.
- (ii) Range accrual deposit (RA) – a deposit with a higher yield than a standard deposit provided that the price of the underlying asset remains within a predefined range (barriers) for an agreed period.

In this type of structured deposit the interest and principal can be paid only in one currency (conversion is not carried out).

- (iii) Double no touch (DNT) – a product in which the price of the underlying asset must remain within a set band (barriers) throughout the monitored period. If the barrier is breached, no additional yield is paid.
- (iv) Wedding cake (WC) – a product with multiple DNT barriers that define a number of possible yields from higher to lowest depending on the level of the barrier. This means that if one barrier is breached the Client can still earn a higher yield than from a classical deposit.

VII. Basic information on structured promissory notes and their basic types Structured promissory notes are an alternative to deposit notes, where the resulting yield is a combination of the promissory note and the price or change in the value of another underlying asset (an exchange rate, index, commodity etc.). Main variants:

- (i) Range accrual promissory note (RA) – a promissory note with a higher yield than a standard promissory note provided that the price of the underlying asset remains within a predefined range (barriers) for an agreed period. In this type of structured promissory note the Amount Payable can be paid only in one currency (conversion is not carried out).
- (ii) Double no touch (DNT) promissory note – a product in which the price of the underlying asset must remain within a set band (barriers) throughout the monitored period. If the barrier is breached, no additional yield is paid or a lower Amount Payable is paid.
- (iii) Wedding cake (WC) promissory note – a product with multiple DNT barriers that determine a number of possible yields or Amounts Payable from higher to lower depending on the level of the barriers. This means that if one barrier is breached the Client can still earn a higher yield than from a classical deposit promissory note.

VIII. Basic information on securities, their classification and basic types Public bonds are bonds (debt securities) for which a prospectus is published. They are issued for a large number of investors. They are accessible to small investors and are usually issued with a lower face value.

Non-public bonds – without a prospectus are bonds that are not issued through a public offering. They are issued to a small group of investors (max 149) or only professional investors. They are usually issued with a higher face value or a minimum investment requirements (EUR 100.000).

Government bonds are bonds issued and guaranteed by a government.

Zero-coupon bonds are bonds where no interest is paid during the life of the bond. The bond is issued and traded at a discount and the issuer pays out the full face value on maturity.

Secured bonds are bonds where the repayment of the principal (in some cases also the coupon) is guaranteed by a third party.

Step-up/Step-down bonds pay an interest rate that moves upwards/downwards during the life of the bond.

Bond with variable coupon frequency are bonds whose coupons are paid at irregular intervals.

Perpetual bonds are bonds with no defined maturity date. Coupons are paid for an unlimited period and the principle is not redeemed. In most cases perpetual bonds include an optional clause allowing the issuer to redeem the bond.

Priority/subordinated bonds are types of bonds determining the order in which creditors receive satisfaction in the event of liquidation/bankruptcy. Holders of priority bonds are paid before the holders of subordinated debt. Due to the higher level of risk, subordinated bonds usually have a lower rating than priority bonds.

Amortised bonds are bonds whose face value (and coupons) are gradually reduced during the lifetime of the bond.

Floating rate bonds are bonds with a variable interest rate defined as a market reference rate plus a spread (e.g. "EURIBOR + 0.5%"). This type exists in the following variants:

- (i) Range floater/Range note – a bond whose coupon depends on the number days during which the reference rate moves within a predefined range.
- (ii) Reverse floater – a bond whose coupon has an inverse relationship to the movement of market reference rates – if the reference rate falls/rises, the coupon rises/falls. It is also known as an "inverse floater"

Bonds with optional early redemption are bonds that can be redeemed before maturity and may take the form of

- (i) bonds with a call option, which give the issuer the right (but not the obligation) to pay the principal at a predefined date before the set maturity date. These are "Callable" bonds.

- (ii) bonds with a put option, which give the bond holder the right (but not the obligation) to require the issuer to pay out the principal at a predefined date before the set maturity date. These are "Puttable" bonds.

Convertible bonds are bonds that can be exchanged for shares in the issuer at the bond holder's request (subject to conditions agreed in advance). The conversion ratio is set in advance and is not affected by the price of the underlying shares.

Reverse convertible bonds are bonds that can be exchanged for shares in the issuer at the issuer's request or redeemed for cash subject to conditions agreed in advance. The issuer will choose the second option if the market price of shares is lower than the conversion ratio at maturity. The issuer compensates the risk of capital loss by a higher coupon rate.

The possible conversion of the bond to shares means there is a greater risk of a loss resulting from a fall in the market value of the shares below the value of the bond.

Index-linked bonds are a form of structured debt security whose yield is determined by the movement of a predefined financial indicator; their main types are:

- (i) Inflation-linked bonds – the yield of the bond depends on the rate of inflation.
- (ii) Index-linked bonds – the yield of the bond is linked to the value of a predefined index.
- (iii) Share-linked bond – the yield of the bond is linked to the value of one or more shares or a share index.
- (iv) Bonds with conditional payment of principal – bonds where the amount paid out is based on the value of another underlying asset and may be lower than the face value.

Bonds with delivery of another underlying asset are bonds where another underlying asset may be provided instead of payment of the principal.

Snowball is a bond type whose coupons are calculated from previous coupons increased ("bullish") or reduced ("bearish") by a variable spread of indexes.

Target Redemption Note (TARN) is a bond type whose coupons are based on a variable index. The bond can be redeemed before the set maturity if the accumulated amount of coupon payments reaches a limit, "target cap", agreed in advance.

Floating rate commercial paper means short-term debt instruments issued by large corporations to finance their needs. Interest paid to the holder is set as a floating interest rate (e.g. "EURIBOR + 0.5%").

Investment certificate is a security whose value is tied to the value of indices, interest rates, shares, debt securities, exchange rates, commodities, inflation, or other underlying assets or a combination thereof. An investment certificate is connected with the right to settlement by means of acquiring financial instruments or gold that are the underlying asset of the investment certificate, in cash, or through a combination of these methods.

Guaranteed investment certificate is a certificate in the case of which the issuer guarantees payment of the whole or part of the invested amount (e.g. 80%, 90% or 100%). With regard to the lower degree of risk, such a certificate usually offers a lower rate of appreciation.

Non-guaranteed investment certificate is a certificate in the case of which the issuer does not guarantee payment of the whole or part of the invested amount. The investor thus, depending on the development of the price of the underlying asset, may lose the whole invested amount. With regard to the higher degree of risk, this certificate usually offers a higher rate of appreciation.

Shares are a type of security representing a share in ownership of a joint stock company. Share owners have a right to participate in the management of the company and a share of its profits and the liquidation balance. Through the company's general meeting, share owners can decide on the payment of a dividend based on the company's profits.

ETF means an exchange-traded fund. This is class of collective investment fund. ETFs can own various sorts of underlying assets. It is possible to select an ETF investment based on various indexes, economic segments or geographical areas.

REPO transactions are transactions where one party ("the Seller") agrees to sell securities and financial instruments ("securities") to the other party ("the Buyer") for an agreed price.

The Buyer agrees to sell back to the Seller securities identical to the original securities on a certain date or on request for the original price of the securities, plus interest for the use of cash (the "repo rate"). Main variants:

- (i) Standard – the standard variant
- (ii) Tri-party agreement – includes a third party (a clearing bank or custodian bank) that handles the administrative aspects of the repo transaction between the Seller and the Buyer.
- (iii) Reverse standard – This is a reverse repo agreement that includes a third party (a clearing bank or custodian bank) that handles the administrative aspects of the repo transaction between the Seller and the Buyer.
- (iv) Reverse tri-party repo – a repo agreement that includes a third party (a clearing bank or custodian bank) that acts as a custodian between creditor and debtor.

Sell/buy backs and buy/sell backs – Transactions similar to a Repo transaction in that they involve an agreement between two parties on the sale of securities and their subsequent repurchase at an agreed date in the future. Main differences from a repo transaction: (1) Sell/buy backs and buy/sell backs are made up of two transactions that take place in parallel and (2) the sellers retain the income (coupon) from the securities but take it into account when calculating the repurchase price.

CDO (Collateralised Debt Obligation) – a Transaction characterised by a credit structure where an investor takes on the credit risk of a certain portfolio that may be composed of corporate currencies, securities, collateral assets (ABS – asset backed securities) or other CDOs. An investor can choose from a range of tranches with lower or higher ratings and a corresponding yield.

IX. Other transactions

Futures are agreements between two parties to buy/sell a certain quantity of an underlying asset for a pre-agreed price at a set date in the future. These are standardised contracts traded on exchanges. (for shares, commodities etc.).
